

Peter Cartwright

Vice President

Environment, Health and Safety

Primary Responsibilities

- Develop strategy for ensuring world-class operational and product Environment, Health and Safety (EHS) capabilities at Dow Corning – and continual improvement of those capabilities.
- Facilitate execution of the strategy and goals through Dow Corning’s business and functional organization.
- Lead global corporate commitment to environmental sustainability.

Experience and Expertise

Peter Cartwright joined Dow Corning in 1990, in Sales for Personal and Household Care in Reading, UK. He was named European Rubber Supply Chain leader in 1994 and Core Products Basic Operations Manager in 2001, both in Barry.

As global Science and Technology director for Core Products from 2004 to 2006, Peter led the business in improvements to its portfolio decision-making and commercialization processes, as well as establishing new technology platforms across all product lines.

In early 2006, he was named director of Product Stewardship and EHS Public Affairs, a role that expanded to his current position later that year. At that time, Peter joined the Executive Council, bringing executive responsibility for EHS governance and functional excellence into one position. Peter led the “What Good Safety Looks Like!” program as part of the vision of “Safe Work IS Our Job” – resulting in significant improvement in Dow Corning’s safety performance.

Education

- Bachelor of Science in chemistry: Bristol, United Kingdom.
- Doctorate in inorganic chemistry: Cardiff, United Kingdom.

External Representation

- Chairman of the ICCA Responsible Care Leadership Group.
- Chairman of the European Silicone Industry.
- Board Member of CEFIC.

Guiding Principle

Do what you said you were going to do, when you said you were going to do it. Have enough self-confidence to listen and learn from others, make decisions quickly and admit when you are wrong.
